CHILD PROTECTION: THE FACETS OF

AN INCREASINGLY NECESSARY INTERVENTION

Also this year, we positively closed the 2018 financial year. It was an intense year full of challenges and new goals in terms of helping children in difficulties. In a difficult context, we have responded to a very real emergency to rescue minors in Libya, provide help to migrants in government centers, while also launching, in collaboration with the Federation of Protestant Churches, a project to alleviate the suffering of Libyan children with serious incurable diseases: a project that includes the concrete solidarity of the hospital structures of Tunisia and Italy, such as the Gaslini Children's hospital in Genoa. With the Federation of Protestant Churches and with the Community of Sant'Egidio we are working to create humanitarian corridors that safely accompany all those who are entitled to humanitarian protection.

Among the many emergencies in which we find ourselves on the front line, we are working in Cúcuta, Colombia, in the Norte de Santander where we welcome Venezuelan refugees. Every day, we ensure a meal and a safe place for children and women who are forced to cross the border even just to receive a basic vaccination or an emergency medical examination.

One of the many challenges we face is fundraising: Italian private donors remain generous, but they feel increasingly less secure about the future and are more interested in the needs of Italy and unfortunately, less inclined to express solidarity towards children experiencing poverty and violence in countries marked by very strong conflicts and social and cultural inequalities. We have certainly not benefited by the scandals that have affected some organizations. It has insinuated doubts in a public that is not always careful to differentiate one organization from another and they tend to hold back on donating. The problem of fundraising and the sustainability of development projects is shared by non-governmental organizations in most of Europe, as seen within the Federation of Terre des Hommes which groups together ten sister organizations operating independently but are united by the same mission. Despite the growing difficulties, our commitment remains unchanged, in fact, it is even more strengthened. We, workers and volunteers, are putting in the maximum effort in order to not leave even one child behind. We are convinced that also our supporters will continue to strengthen their motivation and commitment.

NINA ZILLI AND THE BACK TO THE FUTURE

OF SYRIAN CHILDREN

When we asked Nina Zilli if she wanted to visit our activities for Syrian refugee children in Lebanon, she accepted immediately with enthusiasm. With her work as a singer and with her personal commitment, Nina has always been on the side of the weakest, for those who do not have a voice high enough to be heard and make a change. This time she was offered the chance to gain a new perspective from the inside on the war that has been fought for 8 years in Syria and the tragic consequences faced by the millions of inhabitants who have fled to find a new home to start again.

The idea was to talk about Nina's journey, encounters, emotions and reflections in a documentary for Sky Art.

The team was composed almost spontaneously, starting with the author Roberta Lippi, also a friend of Nina and long-time supporter of Terre des Hommes and as well as the experienced filmmakers Marcello Pastonesi and Alessandro Penso.

Nina had the opportunity to visit some of the 22 open educational centers for the Back to the Future project carried out from 2016 to 2019 by a consortium of NGOs composed of Terre des Hommes Italy, AVSI, Terre des Hommes Netherlands and War Child Holland. The project is funded by the European Union's Madad Fund and it aims to bring Syrian refugee children back to school in Lebanon and Jordan and to foster their integration with peers from their local communities. In the three years of activity, there have been 21,700 children benefitting from the project.

Nina met some of the children and they shared with her their touching stories. In the Akkar refugee camp in northern Lebanon, "a mother spoke to me of how horrific the war was but, in her eyes, she had Joy with a capital J and a smile glued to her face. The joy of being alive, together with her whole family, in a foreign place, in truly precarious conditions, but safe and sound", tells Nina. At the center of Khenchara, in the Mount Lebanon region, she met two Syrian students who, thanks to a tertiary education project, are attending university and dream of returning home when the conflict is over to make their contribution to Syrian society. In an article about her experience, Nina Zilli wrote: "I believe we should accept to be a multicultural society, a reflection of globalization: for this reason it's necessary to fight to give all refugees a dignified life, to allow their children to grow up without the fear of bombs. Every child has a right, that of dreaming, which cannot be snatched away from any child, not even in war. The least we can do, in this complicated world, is to give children and adolescents a future: among the many parties involved, they are the only ones without sin".

Terre des Hommes has been supporting children affected by the conflict since the beginning, with emergency, educational and development interventions in Syria, Lebanon and Jordan. In the second half of 2019, a new phase of the Back to the Future project will start and it will ensure education, and therefore a future to thousands of other children.

OUR CAMPAIGN #INDIFESA FOR GIRLS

With our yearly Campaign indifesa, taking place on the World Day of the Girl Child (October 11th), we are committed to keeping the attention high on the many violations of Girl's Rights around the world. We ask institutions, civil society organizations and individual citizens to do their part to assure girls a life free from violence, abuse and discrimination. In Rome, on October 10, 2018, we presented the new Dossier "The Condition of Girls in the World" at a press conference at the Senate Library. Among the guests, there was the Secretary of State of the Presidency of the Council of Ministers with responsibility for Equal Opportunities and Youth Policies. In Milan, the celebration of October 11th took place at Palazzo Marino, a historical building in the mayor's office. Children participated from the indifesa Network, which is the first Italian network of school web-radios created by young ambassadors against discrimination, stereotypes and gender violence, but also bullying, cyberbullying and sexting.

The new event of 2018 was Stand Up for Girls: a beautiful evening of short talks organized together with the 5x15 Italia at the Giangiacomo Feltrinelli Foundation in Milan. The goal is the same as the #OrangeRevolution: to change the way we look at gender issues and to deconstruct stereotypes and discriminations which are rooted strongly in our mentality and transmitted generation after generation. There were a series of enlightening short talks by cartoonist, Gianluca Foglia; athlete, Veronica Yoko Plebani; photographer, Sara Melotti; actor, Brando Pacitto; singer and musician Nina Zilli, and the boys and girls of the Educapari network of the of the ATS Metropolitan City of Milan, Emanuela De Souza, Chiara Piccoli and Gabriel Borbei.

This year, the indifesa Campaign has continued last year's path to involve Italian Municipalities and Regions, by joining the Manifest #indifesa which is committed to putting in place effective actions for the protection of children and in particular for girls. Over a hundred of them accepted our invitation, coloring the national territory and social networks with the color orange for our #OrangeRevolution in defense of girls (orange is a color that has been chosen by Terre des Hommes and the United Nations for years to say NO to gender violence).

Our Campaign indifesa received the Medal of the President of the Republic and the Patronage of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation and ANCI. The indifesa Conference received the Patronage of Senate of the Republic and the Italian National Police. Partners of the Campaign are FIDAPA BPW Italia and Kreattiva. The campaign was supported by BIC®, Douglas, Limoni, La Gardenia and MainAd Srl.

ITALIAN PROJECTS

SUPPORTING THE GUARANTOR OF MILAN

In 2018, Terre des Hommes launched the project “Childhood and Adolescent Guarantor - Support actions” whose main objectives were the spread of knowledge of children’s rights among the children themselves and among the operators who deal with them in various ways in the city of Milan. Created for the Office of the Guarantor for Childhood and Adolescence of the Municipality of Milan with funds ex L 285/97, the project aimed at improving the services that the Municipality offers to children. The project, which closed in June 2019, was working on 4 levels, which were all interconnected (school, research, health, and campaigns on the communication and promotion of rights) with the collaboration of various partners.

Alice Onlus has created a primary prevention course on issues related to maltreatment and abuse in the developmental age and has actively involved 350 middle school and high school students. Almost 1,000 high school students participated in the ProteggiMI Tour, carried out in collaboration with ScuolaZoo, to reflect on delicate issues such as violence and gender discrimination, bullying, cyberbullying and sexting in order to stimulate the involvement of students to take positive actions.

The Institute for Social Research has conducted two surveys, one for the analysis of the needs of families with children from 0 to 6 years and the other for the construction of a mechanism to evaluate projects financed by the Municipality of Milan ex L. 285. Campoteatrale created the show JukeBox of Rights on the issues of hardships in adolescence and it was replicated several times in Milan. On the same theme was made the short film “Invisibili”.

A LIGHTHOUSE FOR MIGRANT MINORS

Continuing its commitment to the protection of foreign minors, in March 2018 Terre des Hommes signed an agreement with the Italian Ministry of the Interior for the project “FARO: an intervention for the prompt identification of psychosocial vulnerabilities of foreign minors from disembarkation to first reception and the strengthening of the reception system in the provinces of Catania, Messina, Palermo, Ragusa, Siracusa” financed by funds from FAMI (Asylum Migration and Integration Fund) of the European Union. Terre des Hommes added 3 multidisciplinary teams of psychologists, sociologists and cultural mediators to the two teams that were operating in Pozzallo and in the first reception centers of Catania, Siracusa and Ragusa, with funds of Amade World Foundation, LDS Charities, TDH Luxemburg, TDH Germany and Fondation D’Harcourt. In 2018, Terre des Hommes assisted 2,783 people, mostly unaccompanied foreign minors and families with children, offering psychological and psychosocial support. In addition, social, legal and health training courses were offered to the reception operators, in collaboration with the University of Messina, the Palermo Polyclinic, the Arrupe Institute of Palermo. Terre des Hommes was also present in Ventimiglia, with funds from the Amade World Foundation, where it offered migrant children legal information, context orientation, access to basic services as well as legal actions against illegal rejection at the border by French police.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PARTNERSHIPS

Although Goal 17 for Sustainable Development aims to allocate, by 2030, 0.7% of the gross national income for Official Development Assistance, Italy is largely disregarding this goal. In fact, in 2018 Italy reduced its commitment by 21.3% compared to 2017 when it devoted 0.29% to ODA. In an increasingly interconnected world, especially if states do not provide the necessary support, it is up to civil society and companies to do their part.

Terre des Hommes, member of the Italian Alliance for Sustainable Development (ASViS) promotes compliance with the goals of the Sustainable Development Agenda 2030, which Italy has joined together with all the other member states of the United Nations. The goals are fundamental to change the current development model that has proved to be unsustainable not only from an environmental point of view but above all from a social and economic point of view. This is a challenge that cannot be left to only one part of society, but everyone must work together, such as by building partnerships.

In fact, a specific goal of Goal 17 (17.17) is to encourage and promote effective partnerships between public, public-private and civil society subjects. For this reason, we at Terre des Hommes promote the creation of networks capable of making the most of the various potentials and increasing the impact of interventions.

THE COMPANIES AND THE FOUNDATIONS BY OUR SIDE

Despite the current Italian situation in which there is a general difficulty in finding donations, even from companies, we at Terre des Hommes Italy have seen an increase in the number of companies that chose to stay by our side to continue to protect thousands of children and pursue specific goals such as achieving gender equality and empowering all women and girls (SDG 5).

This is also thanks to the development of projects in Italy. Together, we have achieved important results and in 2018 we have managed to increase funding for our projects. Compared to 2017, donations from companies, foundations and other entities grew by 8.76%. We are proud of these results, coming from hard work that has always been effective in the field and efficient in management, and we say THANK YOU to all our Partners.
